The supply chain must operate with honesty and in full compliance with applicable laws and regulations. When approving new suppliers, submitted documentation must comply with our standards to ensure that the materials they provide—whether in terms of quality, delivery time, cost & service, legal compliance, or trade security—meet the company’s requirements. This helps establish and maintain strong supply chain relationships and promote mutual development.

In addition to quality, cost, and delivery standards, we also follow international standards and regulations. All suppliers are required to sign a CSR Social Responsibility Agreement or join the Responsible Business Alliance (RBA) and commit to its Code of Conduct. We fully support the vision and goals of the RBA, which promote safe working conditions throughout the supply chain, ensures that workers are treated with respect, and holds suppliers accountable for responsible practices in areas such as labor, health and safety, environmental protection, ethics, management systems, and regulatory compliance. To ensure ongoing compliance, we conduct both regular and ad-hoc audits. All suppliers are expected to cooperate fully and continuously improve their performance in alignment with these standards.
